There is just something about the styling of a traditional picnic table that is very inviting to children. The 158 Rectangular Preschool Table by Ultra Site is certainly no exception. Two long seats in four, six, or eight-foot lengths provide different seating options. We know that just like not every child is the same, not every learning environment is either. The four-foot tables can be pushed together for larger groups and separated again for smaller settings. However, the eight-foot length is ideal for those settings where table space needs to be maximized. The open design of the table allows children to get in and out of the seats without climbing or having to swing their legs around. Making lunch time or play time that much more easier, peaceful and enjoyable. You can choose between perforated or diamond pattern steel for your table.
