With its diverse age ranges in mind (5-12 year-olds), the Old National recycled playground is a premium example of thoughtful design. At one end you find features perfect for the younger kids in the group - triple rail slides, an overhead ladder, and a turning bar lead to the crawl tunnel. After the tunnel you find a large lava wall, a veer chute slide, a covered platform, and an arched bridge. This leads to the most complex set of features that include two veered slides, a spiral slide, the tree climber, a chain link climber and the spaces below the raised areas. With a use zone of 48'x38', this playground can easily accommodate from 45-49 kids in the set age ranges, and the color scheme can be customized to suit your needs, as well. The materials are going to give you many years of performance and come with warranties to back up the promises - 15 years on many materials or parts and lifetime on the recycled posts.
