Straight

Kids will love the endless fun of the exciting Straight Triple Water Trough. This awesome structure consists of three individual water troughs connected together so that the water cascades from each of them to the next. On one end, a simple garden hose can be attached to get the water flowing. Each of the troughs has three dams which fill up and affect how the water flows. At the far end of the third trough, there is a drain which can be used to collect all of the water that comes out at the other end. Kids will love playing with all kinds of floating toys in the Straight Triple Water Trough.
