The trees are alive with the sound of music. At least they are with Tenor Tree, which provides children with the chance to discover music in a unique and engaging way. Combining physical, social, and creative exercise, Tenor Tree introduces children to all the joys of music. Kids can cheerfully clang out all the noise they want while simultaneously discovering the rhythm and tone that become the real building blocks music. By making music so physical, children get an outlet for their energy and creativity while also feeling the excitement in being instrumental in their own musical compositions. With multiple mallets, opportunities abound to play alone or with friends. When playing together, kids can learn to share and work together while they develop their music and musicals tastes. Whether gleefully making noise with friends or composing the next great symphony alone, Tenor Tree gives children the gift of feeling as well as hearing music.
