The Large Infant Exploratorium is an expansive activity space designed for small kids between 6 and 23 months old. The interior of this zone is an easily traveled maze that is simple enough to find an exit from thanks to its several exits and limited number of turns. Play spaces in this line of models also feature a high quantity of neat game panels that stimulate the senses of developing minds. A Double Sound Cylinder can be rotated to make an enjoyable set of tones. Grownups can glance at kids through the Peek-A-Boo panel to give a nice surprise. Or they could catch their child's glance through the silly visual distortion of the Bubble panel. No matter which point entrances kids in the Large Infant Exploratorium, parents and teachers will rest easy knowing that they can see everything going on below as a result of the wide viewing angles allowed by the uncovered top of the activity zone.
