For kids interested in physical fitness, the Triple Agility Bars provide more than enough opportunities to get active. The bars that characterize this unit are located at varying heights, allowing children of all heights to train their grip strength and overall agility. Additionally, the bars are ideal for doing pull ups, an exercise that effectively trains one's back, upper body, and core abdominal muscles. For young gymnastic enthusiasts, the Triple Agility Bars are a natural choice due to the fact that they resemble swinging bars already present in most gymnastics gyms. Young athletes will love taking the fun of training outdoors and using the Triple Agility Bars to improve their physical fitness.
